

Oh, The Places You'll Go!

The beginning of the new year is the perfect occasion to set sight on new adventures! As you plan your vision board, why not add a 3D build inspired by a landmark of a destination you would like to visit? This is a great way to test your engineering skills, your creativity, and to practice visualization! Where would you like to travel to?

Try using different materials such as pipe cleaners, toothpicks and gumdrops. Heck, why not try spaghetti noodles and marshmallows? Other options include index cards and tape. The possibilities are limitless! Test which materials work best for your structure.
